William H. West, the well-known minstrel, is critically ill at San Francisco. His company is playing in cities of the Pacific coast. A New York physician who once operated on West for cancer says his ultimate recovery is impossible.

The change at the Park Theater to-day will bring "The Night Before Chrismas." a melodrama of country life in Ohio. The principal character is impersonated by Elmer Grandin, who has been prominent in plays of good class for a long time.

Walter Hale, Miss Mary Mannering's leading man in "Janice Meredith," will Rowe, of Chicago. leave the company because of ill health. He has not been well for many months, and his physician has advised him against a trip to the Pacific coast. He is the husband of Miss Louise Closser, whose home is in this city and who is also a member row afternoon in the church parlors. of Miss Mannering's company.

X X X May Irwin, who is playing "Madge Smith" there, has announced that she will act no more after the close of this season. She has been wise in the investment of her earnings, which have been large, and now has a great deal of property in New York city and elsewhere. She has always managed her own business affairs.

Crabrec, manager of the Park Theater, of Boston. He says he found the rear wall of the stage of that house partly gone, and the breeze that entered gave Miss Martinot a chill. When he demanded that this be repaired Crabtree closed the theater and turned away hundreds of people. Nethersole alleges. He is a brother of Olga Nethersole, the well-known English emotional actress, and was married to Miss Martinot last year.

Frank L. Perley, whose comedians are singing "The Chaperons," a new musical comedy, became ill in Toronto and was that a surgical operation would be necessary to his recovery. His company is traveling in the middle West, and Frank C Payne, who is in advance, writes that it is pany. He was three years with the Carl Rosa Opera Company. He is probably the only man that ever "understudied" a prima donna. When Agnes Huntington, the Chicago contralto, made a hit in London fourteen years ago in "Paul Jones," Mr. Saxe was her understudy in the title role and later was at the head of a provincial company that used the opera.

The turning point in the career of Lew a theater manager. Dockstader had gathered about him many admirers. Of these, one of the staunchest was Frank Siddell, who had no lack of money. He met Dockstader one day and asked him why he didn't open a theater of his own. "Money" was the suggestive answer of the minstrel. He needed about thirty thousand. "I'm going to Europe; the money is in the bank." said Siddell. And he sailed away. Soon the money was out of the bank and the Dockstader Theater, on Broadway, was the outcome. Within the next two years Dockstader had cleared about $80,000. His fame. oo, had grown. He was the most widely scussed minstrel in the country. We Have Better Laws.

New York Commercial Advertiser. What would the women's clubs of this country have to say had they to face such a decision as was handed down by the Austrian Supreme Court of Appeals not long ago? The decision in brief was that if a wife saves money from the amount allowed her by her husband for house hold expenses, and appropriates this money to her own use, she commits what is, to Il intents and purposes, a theft. The case that brought this decision was that of a couple named Daun. After thirty years of narried life they were divorced, and Mrs. Daun took with her the sum of $625, her savings of thirty years. Her husband brought suit and recovered the whole amount, and the judges made the ruling of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated, that Mrs. Daun had practically committed Carr, of Richmond Ind., who delivered his annual address. The reading of numerous reports, among those of Secretary Francis E. Lukens, of Chicago, and Treasurer U. G. Orendorff, took up the rest of the time of the first day. In his annual address President Carr said that the business of the country had grown to such immense proportions that many rules and regulations now used by railroads were not in keeping with the spirit of the imes. "I favor," said he, "amending the nterstate-commerce laws and giving additional powers to the interstate-commerce commissioners, and doing everything possible to reduce our freight transportation methods to a more permanent and less complicated basis." He would go even further, he said, if necessary to accomplish these results, and give the railroad companies permission to pool the business. "But." he insisted, "let us have universal classifications throughout the whole country, and when once accepted, insist that they be not changed without good cause. Gas Problem Is a Perplexing One for the Oil Men-Record of Work in Wells and Production.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MONTPELIER, Ind., Oct. 30 .- Operations month of October show a great outburst

258 wells completed, of which thirty-seven ing a daily output of 4,165 barrels, or an November starts in with good prospects, oil counties of the State. Wells county shows a slight increase, as do Jay, Grant, Adams, Huntington, Miami, Marion, Delaware, Jasper and the miscellaneous coun-

There was a decline in completed work in Blackford county owing to the watchful eyes of the gas inspectors in the Hartford City pool. The operators are afraid to start operations there in an active manner owing to the fact that the best oil producing territory lies within the gas limits of that field, and they do not relish the idea of to pay a heavy penalty for the escaping or waste of the natural gas. The same can be said of the Alexandria oil field. Several arrests for the wasting of gas have been made there during the month, and oil men are getting skeptical where they start a well. Weber, Coval & Tuttle, who purchased the Miller & Tree 160-acre farm in fee simple a few months ago, and located to the northeast a few miles from Alexandria, are meeting with the best of success in their oil developments. They disposed of their gas product to the Alexandria Gas Company, and thereby are saving their oil. Since the gas is being piped away the daily oil production of the farm has increased from sixty to close to 180 barrels a day. Many o the other producers are compelled to shut in their wells on account of the heavy gas pressure. The operators at Hartford City are figuring on giving their gas to the Kerlina Bros.' gas line, running to Montpelier, free of cost if they will lay gas lines to their wells, and allow them to produce the oil. In this manner quite an oil pro duction can be secured in that pool. The Marion field is active, and at the present time is the center of the oil activity in the State. The following tables give
